Right to Information (RTI) Committee

The Right to Information (RTI) Act, 2005, empowers citizens to obtain information from public authorities, promoting transparency and accountability. Educational institutions, particularly those funded or recognized by the government, such as schools, colleges, and universities are obligated to comply with Sections 4(1)(b) and 2(h) of the RTI Act, except where exemptions under Section 8 apply. The University Grants Commission (UGC) requires all affiliated universities and colleges to adhere to RTI provisions. To facilitate this, institutions must designate a Public Information Officer (PIO) responsible for managing RTI requests and ensuring timely responses.
